Strikes, Tieups Threat To Phone Service, Nation's Transportation Systems

(By Associated Press.)
The nation's labor outlook appeared darker today with continuation of three major strikes and the threatened tieup of the country's telephone service.

Some 64,000 workers remained idle in work stoppages in the oil, trucking and shipping industries while a CIO unit set Sept. 17 as a strike date for 25,000 telephone workers.

The CIO Association of Communications equipment workers, installers of telephone equipment, said the walkout would affect 2,300 Bell Telephone Company locations in 43 states. The strike was called against the Western Electric Manufacturing Company over wages and working conditions. Negotiations are continuing toward a settlement.

The union has demanded a pay boost of 15 cents per hour. The company has offered eight cents. The workers now receive from 88 cents to $1.54 an hour.

Little Progress Made

The eight-day oil trucking strike in New York City and Northern New Jersey by some 15,000 teamsters showed little signs of early settlement. But federal, state and city mediators planned further meetings with officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in an attempt to settle the wage dispute.

The strike affected many segments of business and industry. A "critical" situation in New York's milk supply because of a shortage of fiber containers was reported, and consumers were finding dwindling food supplies on grocery store shelves.

The city's huge garment industry was reported 50 per cent behind in making deliveries and continuation of the walkout may force the layoff of 38,000 textile workers.

There was no break indicated in the week-old strike of 28,000 CIO Longshoremen of the west coast. Strike leaders planned a meeting with Army officers today in San Francisco to discuss the handling of Army cargo.

Shipowners have refused to negotiate with unions whose leaders failed to file non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley act. Wages and the disputed hiring hall issue had been the chief items under negotiations.

Scout Troop Leaders To Meet On Thursday

All men connected with Boy Scout troops will take part in a special roundtable Thursday evening at the Memorial building, to get help in planning troop programs.

Scoutmasters and committee members from all troops in the northern district of the Columbiana county council will see a national Boy Scout film on program planning, and will proceed to make program outlines by months for a full year.

In the second part of the evening, the group will be divided. One section will work on selecting the high point of interest for each meeting for three months, while the other section will work out the details of a single troop meeting and a single hike, using the suggestions provided in Scout literature and magazines.

There will be a discussion of the items that should be on the program of a "Troop Open House," to which boys not now Scouts and their parents will be invited sometime in October.

There also will be some preparation given for the Fall Rally, scheduled at Camp McKinley next month.

CITY TO SEEK RENEWAL OF LEVY NOV. 2

Council Decides To Re-submit Half-Mill Operating Levy

Salem voters will be asked to renew a one-half mill tax levy for operating expenses for the city at the November election, council decided Tuesday night when it passed a resolution requesting that the levy be placed on the ballot.

The levy, which expires at the close of the 1947 tax year, annually collects approximately $6,500 for the city's use in meeting increased operating expenses, most of which involve payment of salaries and wages.

Council officially approved the resolution asking that the board of elections place the question before voters here at the Nov. 2 election.

Other Business Items

In an evening filled with minor business matters and varied collection of ordinances, council also decided to investigate the need of repairs to the roof of the city garage on W. State st., which has been leaking and causing considerable damage to equipment housed there.

Service Director Frank K. Wilson reported that unofficial estimates place the cost of the needed work at around $2,500, which would provide for the installation of a new three-ply roofing over the entire garage.

President Harry Vincent referred the matter to the finance and safety committees.

Final property assessment ordinances were passed for the McKinley Heights sanitary sewer project, now completed, and the Rose ave. paving, also recently finished.

Assessment Payments
The ordinance stipulates that the payment of the assessments due from benefiting property owners can be paid in cash to the city auditor within 30 days after the final serving of notices, or in 10 annual installments collectable on the tax duplicate. The total front-end costs on McKinley Heights properties totals $1.68 per foot frontage, and $7.53 per foot frontage on Rose ave., between E. State and E. Third sts.

The ordinance authorizes the city auditor to borrow $9,074.80 on notes for the costs of the McKinley Heights project, in anticipation of collection of the property owner costs, was passed under emergency rules.

The McKinley Heights project included installation of sanitary sewers on Roosevelt, N. Madison aves., and a section of E. State st. near the city corporation line.

Rose ave. was paved 26 feet in width with eight-inch concrete surface.

An appropriation of $10,000 from the general fund, waterworks department, to the pumping fund was made to cover costs of sewer installations on various street projects.

Robert Mitchum, Others Face New Narcotics Charge

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8—Actor Robert Mitchum, Starlet Lila Leeds and two others will be re-booked today on narcotics charges as a result of grand jury indictments issued against them.

The four, including dancer Vickie Evans and Robin Ford, a real estate agent, were indicted by the county grand jury yesterday on two counts—possessing marijuana and conspiring to possess the drug.

They were arrested late Wednesday when police and federal narcotics officers raided a secluded Hollywood cottage rented to Miss Leeds. Booked on suspicion of violating narcotics laws, they were released on $1,000 bond each, pending a hearing today on petitions for writs of habeas corpus.

Mitchum, 31-year-old handsome leading man, and the other principals were invited to appear before the grand jury yesterday, but declined to do so. The jurors acted after hearing Capt. Lynn White, head of the police narcotics squad; his assistant, Sgt. Alva Barr, who led the raid, and Jay Allen, police chemist.

Superior Judge Thomas L. Ambrose received the indictments, set bail at $1,000 each and ordered the four to be present for arraignment Sept. 15.

Drama At Hospital

Doctors Save Baby After Mother Dies

In one of the most dramatic episodes in the history of Salem City hospital, and a rarity in medical history anywhere, doctors at the hospital yesterday morning succeeded in saving the life of a baby 15 minutes after the mother died suddenly of failure of the right heart artery.

The victim was Mrs. Florence McRoberts, 45, of Enon Valley, Pa., wife of Albert McRoberts, a farmer of the Enon Valley-Butts Corners road, northeast of East Palestine.

Mrs. McRoberts apparently was making satisfactory progress toward delivery after she entered the hospital at 11:55 p. m. Monday.

At 7 a. m. Tuesday Mrs. McRoberts suddenly expired, shortly before she was to have been taken to the delivery room.

Hospital authorities hurriedly called Dr. L. C. Ziegler and Dr. Paul Corso, while Dr. W. S. Elliott of East Palestine, who was attending Mrs. McRoberts, struggled feverishly in hopes of saving the mother.

Called from their beds, Doctors Ziegler and Corso responded immediately.

Thoughts immediately turned to the baby. It's a million to one chance, the doctors thought.

Acting quickly and without even stopping to don white aprons or gloves, Dr. Ziegler performed a Caesarian operation and delivered the baby—a girl weighing nine pounds and 14 ounces.

The child, presumably, too, was dead, but the doctors applied every means of artificial respiration known to them.

Encouraged when the baby took a few gasps for breath after receiving oxygen, the doctors even used a mouth-to-mouth breathing to keep the infant alive.

Even the old-fashioned hot and cold packs were applied to stimulate breathing as well as the modern injections. Finally, —and the doctors don't remember exactly how long they worked—the baby was alive and breathing regularly.

It was placed in an incubator and today the hospital reports its condition as favorable.

OFFER TALKS WITH RUSSIA

British Announce They're Ready To Discuss Italy's Colonial Problems

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 8—Britain has notified Russia she is ready to open four-power talks on the future of Italy's pre-war colonies before Sept. 15, the foreign office announced today.

The government disclosed its decision in reply to a Russian request for such talks, delivered to Russian Ambassador George Zarubin yesterday and released by the foreign office today.

Pointing out that quick action is necessary to meet the Italian treaty deadline of Sept. 15—after which the Italian colony problem must go to the United Nations for decision—the British note asked Russia to suggest a meeting date.

Britain suggested the meetings be held in Paris, where the United Nations assembly convenes Sept. 21.

ST. PAUL'S BEGINS NEW SCHOOL TERM

St. Paul's school opened its doors Tuesday for a half-day session to 210 children.

The school year officially began with children attending the 8 a. m. mass. Full days are scheduled for the rest of the week.

Although more pupils were expected to enroll today, the total number of students in each grade when school started was as follows:

First, 29; second, 30; third, 31; fourth, 30; fifth, 24; sixth, 23; seventh, 23 and eighth, 19.

Sister Alfonso, mother superior, will be principal again this year and will teach seventh and eighth grades. Sister Marcelle will teach grades one and two; Sister Marilyn, grades three and four, and Sister Claudia, grades five and six.

Dozen New Auto Models To Feature Eye-Appeal Changes

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor
DETROIT, Sept. 8—About a dozen new model automobiles will appear during the next four or five months and in every instance eye-appeal will receive as much emphasis as mechanical change.

The mechanical changes as a matter of fact will be relatively few. In most cases the manufacturers will claim improved gasoline mileage.

Whether the motorist gets it will depend upon a variety of factors, including type of fuel used, adjustment and conditions of driving.

Higher compression engines are to be installed in the forthcoming new Cadillac and Oldsmobile models. Undoubtedly they will improve gasoline mileage with the best of the premium fuels now obtainable. In both instances the new powerplants will be of the V-8 type. This will be new to Oldsmobile.

Of Modest Proportion
The increase in compression, of course, will be of only modest proportion. It may move up from the present top of 7.50-to-1 to not more than 8-to-1. The engineers say, however, that even this will give more mileage if all other factors are favorable.

Charles F. Kettering, General Motors engineering consultant, has demonstrated that an engine can be built giving 12.5-to-1 but it requires a high quality fuel not likely to be available for a long time.

By the claims of the manufacturer present standard size automobiles yield from 15 to more than 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline "at reasonable speeds." To this a lot of car owners will say, "I don't get nine miles to the gallon." It probably should be noted the high mileages claimed by some car makers are those achieved on trunk line highways with few stops.

Few motorists get more than nine or 10 miles from a gallon of fuel in big city driving with frequent stops and starts.

Automotive engineers agree the average motorist gets less than half the potential mileage contained in a gallon of gasoline. Much is burned up without yielding combustion

ISAIAH MOWEN, 75, COLUMBIANA, DIES

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 8—Isaiah Mowen, 75, Columbiana building contractor and an active member of the Rotary club, died of complications at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, at his home, 106 N. Elm st.

Born Aug. 8, 1873, in Springfield township, he was the son of Griffith and Rebecca Elser Mowen. He had lived most of his life in this community.

A past president of the Columbiana Rotary club, he was also a charter member of the club and at the time of his death was secretary emeritus. He was a member of the Jerusalem Lutheran church.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Collins Mowen; one daughter, Mrs. Karl A. Muir of Passaic, N. J., and one son, Olin, of Columbiana. His first wife, Emma Weller, died in 1918. A brother, George, preceded him in death last Aug. 4, and a sister, Mrs. Emeline Weller, died last Aug. 27.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday, at the Jerusalem Lutheran church, in charge of Rev. W. A. Oelschlager. The body will lie in state one hour before the funeral. Burial will be in the Columbiana cemetery.

Boosters To Meet Thursday; Goal of 1,000 Members Set

A goal of 1,000 members has been set by the Salem Boosters club for the current year. The drive has been in progress for a week and first reports will be made at the first meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

The overall purpose of the Boosters club is to promote the betterment of Salem High school athletics.

Contrary to previous years, the club will allot money to all sports rather than donating the total amount to football alone, officers explained.

The club sponsors such functions as banquets for football and basketball players, awards, supplying athletes with needy equipment and filming all football games for use by the coaches.

Officers of the club are: President, George Baillie, Sr.; vice president, F. R. Bichel; treasurer, Harry Wilson; secretary, Edward Probert; directors, Fred Koehnrich, Arthur Brian and P. K. Laughlin.

BOTH BLOCS HAVING OWN CONFLICTS

New Cold War Crisis Rises On Eve of New U. N. Meeting In Paris

BY R. H. SHACKFORD
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Sept. 8—Two weeks of cautious optimism about the international situation ended today and a new cold war crisis appeared to be building up almost on the eve of the Paris meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

Both the western and Soviet blocs have troubles of their own, in addition to seeking to ease the direct conflict between them over Berlin and Germany.

Only a fortnight ago, pessimism which had prevailed for months was replaced by hope when it was disclosed in Kremlin talks which permitted sending the Berlin problem to their commanders in Germany for possible settlement.

Now the military governors seem to have hit serious snags, one apparently being a Russian demand that the Soviet government have sole control of currency in Berlin. The Western powers had been prepared to agree that the Soviet eastern mark would be the only currency to circulate in the German capital, but they wanted four-power control of it.

May Meet Thursday

Berlin reported the military governors might meet again tomorrow, but it was clear that disagreements reached in their meetings already were being referred to higher levels.

In London, the "crisis committee" of U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas, French Ambassador Rene Massigli, and British expert on Germany Sir William Strang was meeting again to coordinate western policy. A foreign office spokesman said summary reports of the military governors were being considered.

The Russian campaign of harassment of the western powers in Berlin continued with increased heat. The Soviet Air force scheduled extensive maneuvers in an apparent effort to hamper the British-American air lift which has supplied Western Berlin during the 62-day Soviet surface blockade. German Communists, with at least tacit Soviet backing, continued their riotous attack upon the elected Berlin city government.

There were these other signposts of trouble:

1. France again was without a government in her severest crisis since liberation. Prospects of creating political and economic stability in France — almost essential to

OPENING WORD SKIRMISH FORECASTS BITTER CAMPAIGN

BY JACK BELL
DETROIT, Sept. 8—The opening Michigan skirmish between Republicans and Democrats forecast today a hot-worded presidential campaign.

President Truman and Harold E. Stassen, a substitute GOP opponent, handed out some tough political talk in their kickoff speeches in this industrial heart of America.

Battling for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee, Stassen fired a salvo of critical words at Mr. Truman last night. Dewey approved the jibes in a telephone call from Albany to Stassen here.

The former Minnesota governor said the President had made "a record of failures—failures at home and failures abroad."

He called Mr. Truman "a complaining candidate" who used "an extreme demagogic appeal" and who was trying "to benefit politically by deceiving labor."

He said the President had followed ed Henry A. Wallace's economic theories, adding:

"Wallace followed those who had no faith in America and the American people suffered an inflation."

"With a record of little judgment and less faith," Stassen thundered, "he (the President) once again sets himself up as a prophet of doom and attempts to arouse in America an unreasoning, nameless fear of future depression, unemployment and chaos if he is not returned to office."

Stassen was answering some pretty blunt language used about the Republicans by Mr. Truman in Labor day appearances in Michigan and Ohio.

The President in his talks didn't call Dewey by name but slammed hard at what he tabbed as GOP "spokesman of reaction."

He said a reactionary "is a man with a calculating machine, whose heart ought to be. He has learned a great deal about how to get his way by observing demagogues and reactionaries in other countries."

Mr. Truman spoke of the "do-nothing" Republican congress.

He said Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) had "run out on his own housing bill."

Stassen gave the Republican reply to some of the issues the President had raised. The former Minnesota governor in turn raised some issues against the Democrats.

He said Senator Robert A. Taft inflation by removing controls. The President has been talking about "Republican high prices."

Mr. Truman told labor that it had better watch out for more restrictions if the Republicans are elected. Stassen said labor has done better under the Taft-Hartley act than under Mr. Truman's policies.

Stassen charged that Mr. Truman's agreements with the Russians at Potsdam had proved "a colossal failure for the United States." He complained that Mr. Truman failed to take Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) along to that meeting.

Vandenberg—Praised by Mr. Truman at Grand Rapids as "my good friend"—got into the fray via a telegram read at the Stassen meeting by Senator Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.).

Vandenberg said: "I deeply believe a Republican victory is necessary next November for the sake of American liberties at this critical moment in the life of the nation. If we take the truth to the people I have no fear of the result."

School Bells Ring

Schools reopen this week, with classrooms more crowded than ever before. The U. S. Office of Education reports 32,000,000 will be enrolled from kindergarten through college.

This year sees the first important drop in veterans' attendance at colleges, but nevertheless they will have record enrollments. It is in the public schools, however, that the greatest gains will be made.

Before the war, elementary school enrollment was dropping steadily, reflecting the depression years' birth rate decline. The war reversed that trend and the first great surge of war babies will reach the primary grades this year. Nor will there be a tapering-off, for another 7,000,000 increase is predicted in 1949. As for the next decade, it may go down in history as the "fabulous fifties," in so far as education is concerned, for the postwar birthrate has continued to rise.

The burden on the school system will pose serious problems. The teacher shortage, particularly at the elementary level, must be solved. Teachers' pay has been raised in the most flagrant cases of underpayment, but it is still out of line with wage scales in many callings requiring less training. Enrollment gains will aggravate the space shortage resulting from wartime suspension of building. Salem's school board is trying to keep pace with the trends.

Every factor points to a vastly increased educational budget in years to come. A democracy cannot make a better investment.

Frost On the Punkin's

The paradox of autumn, the season everybody welcomes because it is the saddest of the year, is being waited nearer on chilly winds from the Northwest. Tired leaves are waiting for the signal to shower down. Corn is mature and hardening in the ear. Weeds are seeding down their posterity. Heavy dew is beginning to fall and one night soon there will be frost on the "punkins."

The grasses are stirring from their August rest and beginning the frantic growth that will give them security against the snow and ice of winter. Blue jays are squawking their raucous songs of triumph over the departure of the mild-mannered robins for milder climates. Wild geese are starting their weird, unguided flights from the remote marshes of northern Canada.

The behemoths of the gridiron have emerged, snorting, to lock horns in mortal combat, dwarfing the tired heroes of the baseball diamond in the waning hours of their glory. It seems incredible, as it always does, but summer, which arrived only yesterday, will be leaving tomorrow.

Licking Off the Icing

They all want to lick the frosting off the Marshall plan cake, but nobody wants the cake. Less than one-half of 1 percent of the $500,000,000 set aside for ECA loans in the first six months has been allocated. This was in the form of a single $2,300,000 loan for Iceland fisheries development.

Negotiations are in progress for $10,000,000 in loans to eight other aid recipients, but ECA's terms are proving unattractive to the prospective borrowers. Meanwhile, there is a market for outright grants in aid. More than $1,375,000,000 has been allocated, with new grants being made at the rate of $19,000,000 a day.

The slack will have to be taken up. As congress drafted the ECA plan, both loans and grants were required. If the grants outnumber the loans by too wide a margin, it may be necessary to halt the disbursement of funds until the amounts of icing and cake are equalized.

Moving The U. N.

The campaign against New York as the United Nations headquarters site will be stepped up this month when the general assembly convenes in Paris. The leaders are the Russians who complain against New York's temperature extremes and the fact that much of the work at Lake Success must be done in "a kind of hazy."

The location of the headquarters is unimportant if the will to make the U. N. succeed is sincere. But if it is to become an organ of Russian policy, a European site would be preferable.

For all their eagerness to move the headquarters, the Russians aren't likely to invite the delegates to Moscow. That would mean playing host to diplomats of the world and according them diplomatic immunity. That is what the United States has been doing, while State department fingers are crossed lest an incident similar to the Russian consulate affair involve U. N. delegates.

Up To Mr. Hiss

Testifying before the house un-American activities committee, Alger Hiss challenged Whittaker Chambers to repeat his Communist allegations against him outside the protection of the committee room. Testimony before congressional committees is privileged and cannot be the basis for libel or slander actions.

Subsequently, on a radio program Mr. Chambers repeated his charges. Asked if he was prepared to go to court to answer a damage suit, Mr. Chambers said, "I don't think Mr. Hiss will go to court."

Mr. Hiss has taken no action, other than to say his next step is under consideration. A court action for libel or slander isn't a move to be undertaken lightly, but Mr. Hiss has thrown down the gage. He is confronted by a situation of his own making. Mr. Chambers met his challenge. The next move is up to Mr. Hiss.

A PARTICULARLY lively and eventful day is indicated by the current auguries, with all affairs moving under clever manipulation of ideas and new openings, mainly supported by clever strategies, where problems may seem obscure or intricate. New business, change, travel, fresh contracts or contacts, could be greatly advanced by secret understandings, subtle manipulation of strange deals or unique proposals. All pertaining to writings, publicity, travel, public relations should thrive. Imagination and intuition are stimulated.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively and progressive year, in which versatility, ingenuity, and exceptional talents or ideas are bound to get over, and also produce pleasant relations. Travel, change, new propositions, particularly those involving writings, communications, publicity or dealings with agents, should flourish. The situation could be decidedly enhanced by secret deals, tacit understandings, or other subtle or covert strategies, in which hunches, intuitions or curious "imagination" could be of vital influence. The unique and peculiar may greatly accelerate most prosaic doings or objectives.

A child born on this day has much talent, versatility and sagacity, all aided by peculiar, subtle or idealistic gifts.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIERNAN

Two new postage stamps are on sale but the mullage tastes the same and there is no spirited bidding for them.

One is a salute to youth and the other a salute to a new telescope . . . but the postoffice never will work out of its deficit until it starts printing a salute to out Betty Grabels.

When I am elected president my first issue of Conover covers and Powers postage will make the postoffice America's largest profit industry.

And somebody had better do something soon . . . now the opera and the fur growers are screaming for subsidies.

Pearl divers are still on their own but the feeling seems to be that any enterprise than can lose as much money as opera is a candidate for federal funds.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Treating Cerebral Accidents

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

LIFE is threatened at any time when circulation to the cerebrum or brain is impaired and, unless prompt action is taken, the brain itself may be so seriously damaged that repair is impossible. The most frequent emergencies of this kind are created by what are known as cerebral accidents, such as embolism, thrombosis or hemorrhage.

We speak of cerebral embolism when a bit of a blood clot from some other part of the body is carried to the brain and lodges in one of its tiny blood vessels.

Formation of Clot

Cerebral thrombosis means the formation of a clot within one of the blood vessels of the brain. This type of accident usually is confined to people with high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries; also, in these cases, the patient is unconscious. Here, too, the spinal fluid is normal but its pressure is likely to be increased.

High blood pressure and hardened arteries also predispose toward brain hemorrhage, which nearly always comes on suddenly; in such cases, the spinal fluid is frequently bloody and the pressure of the fluid is increased.

As I said previously, patients with these types of disturbances require prompt treatment. Oxygen may be administered and often is found helpful. If mucus collects in the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, it may have to be sucked out.

terminus of a blood clot has formed in the vein.
There is no particular treatment necessary unless the vein is causing symptoms.

Valois Finley Is Married In Athens Church Ceremony

In the church of their college years, the First Presbyterian church, Athens, Miss Valois Finley and E. Stanton Gaylor, Jr., exchanged their marriage vows in an impressive double ring ceremony at 3:45 p. m. Saturday.

Miss Finley is the daughter of Mrs. Wilbur R. Finley of Franklin st. and the late Mr. Finley, while the groom is the son of Mrs. E. S. Gaylor of Nitro, W. Va., and the late Rev. Gaylor.

The bride was escorted to the altar by a friend of the family, Frank D. Ellison of Long Island, N. Y., while Rev. William Brice Miller was officiating.

The soft glow of candles from seven-branch candelabra fell upon the chancel that banked the altar. Glazed ivy and huckleberry with a huge bouquet of white gladioli and chrysanthemums formed the background for the wedding. White satin ribbon marked the pews.

Miss Frances Gaylor, of Cleveland, sister of groom, played "Clair de Lune" and "Sonata," followed by the traditional wedding marches.

At her sister's request, Miss Donna Finley sang "Because" and "Always" to accompany the bride and groom. Miss Gaylor, who also entertained with a reception prelude of piano selections including "Indian Love Call" and "I Love You Truly."

Bride's Costume
The bride's exquisite gown, styled princess line with full train, was of white slipper satin. Leg-o-mutton sleeves were pointed at the wrist and the neckline was sweetheart fashion. The imported silk illusion veil which fell to her fingertips, was held in place by a coronet of braided satin.

The Eastern Star Bible carried by the bride was covered with a spray of gardenias from which fell streamers of white satin. She wore a diamond heirloom necklace a gift from her grandfather to her mother and a pearl ring, given her mother by her father.

The colonial mode prevailed in the gowns and bouquets of the bride's attendants.

As maid of honor, Miss Virginia Voorhees of Queens Village, N. Y., a college roommate of the bride, wore an off-shoulder aqua sheer over taffeta with matching head-dress and mitts, with contrasting bronze California mums circled with yellow and tied with yellow ribbon streamers adorned with maline and lace.

Miss Billie Ann Finley, second sister of the bride, was gowned in yellow sheer decollete fashioned with an underskirt of self taffeta. The flowers were caught up with orchid bows and two shades of orchid mums made up her Colonial bouquet.

The bouquet of Miss Dorothy Ann Gaylor, of Nitro, sister of the groom, was the same as the other bridesmaid, but her sheer gown was of dusty pink, also over taffeta.

A changeable taffeta petticoat and touches of yellow complimented the lilac gown, which the junior bridesmaid, Miss Betty June Gaylor of Nitro, wore for her brother's wedding. Yellow mums rimmed with orchid made up her old-fashioned bouquet.

O. C. Sanders of Athens, life-long friend of the groom served him as best man, while Thomas A. Gaylor of Nitro, a brother, and Ted Bassford of Athens were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Finley chose a black frock and accessories with which she wore a corsage of yellow roses and mums, while Mrs. Gaylor was attired in grey with black and her corsage was pink roses and mums. Mrs. George Dixon of Salem, an aunt of the bride, wore a bronze mums corsage with her cocoa brown dress with matching accessories.

The groom gave his attendants tie clasps and the bride gave personalized note sheets. Mr. Ellison, who gave the bride in marriage, presented her with brooch set with amethysts, pearls and diamonds.

Reception Follows
Mrs. William Voorhees of Queens Village, N. Y., Mrs. Bassford and Mrs. Ellison of Long Island presided over the crystal punchbowl on the refreshment table at the reception held in the Anchor room of the church.

More than 100 friends and relatives witnessed the traditional cutting of the wedding cake by the newlyweds. The three-tiered confection, with its tiny bridal couple topping, was the center attraction at a table laid with Irish linen. Ivy twined about the base of the cake and down the length of the table.

Those on the guest list from Salem included: Mr. and Mrs. Odoran, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keller and sons, Richard, Dennis and Dean, cousins of the bride; Charles Ward and Ted Sobona. Other guests were present from Nitro, Charleston and Belle, W. Va.; Queens Village, Astoria, Long Island, N. Y.; Mason, Ky.; New Jersey; Columbus, Athens, Cleveland, The Plains, Salem; and El Paso, Tex.

After a short honeymoon in the east, the couple will make their home in Athens. For going away the bride wore a chocolate brown street length frock, complemented with gold and brown accessories and gardenias.

Mrs. Gaylor graduated from Ohio university, and has been employed as a child welfare worker in the Department of Public Assistance, Charleston, W. Va., while her husband, a graduate of the College of Commerce, Ohio university, is employed by the McGee Co. of Athens. A World War II veteran, he served three years in the air force and saw action in Europe with the 324th Fighter group.

Invited To Lecture

The Akron and Summit County Garden Forum has invited the Salem Garden clubs to hear John Taylor Arms of New York City give a lecture on "Design in Flower Arrangement," at 8:15 p. m., Thursday, in the Akron armory.

Besides being a lecturer, Arms is also an artist.

Holland, Mich., Girl Bride Of Wm. Beardmore

White gladioli, palms and candelabra decorated the chancel of Hope Reformed church at Holland, Mich., Friday night for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Ann Van Zooren of Kalamazoo, Mich., and William Boone Beardmore of Salem.

The single ring ceremony was performed at 8 p. m. by Rev. Marion de Velter in the presence of 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Zooren of Kalamazoo, formerly of Holland, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Earl Beardmore of Franklin st.

Preceding the ceremony, Dr. Elwin Cater, head of the music department at Western Michigan college, sang "Dedication," "How Do I Love Thee," and "Ich Liebe Dich." Harris Meyer of Kalamazoo was at the organ and played the traditional marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin fashioned with sheer yoke, long sleeves and fitted bodice, the princess front panel featuring a pearl beaded design. The skirt extended into a circular train on which was applied the beaded design from her Grandmother Van Zanten's wedding hat.

She wore her mother's wedding veil of illusion tulle which was held in place by a bandeau of Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and gardenias. Her pearls were a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Thomas Calero of Chicago was maid of honor, wearing a frock of aqua crepe with rhinestones and a sequined callot to match. The bridesmaids, the Misses Kay Steketee and Louelle Jonkmann, wore identical frocks of fuchsia crepe with rhinestones, and callots of sequins to match. The attendants' bouquets matched that of the bride.

Thomas M. Beardmore of Salem was his brother's best man. Seating the guests were Charles and Paul Van Zooren, brothers of the bride, Thelma Stacks and Thomas Calero of Chicago.

Reception in Parish Hall
At the reception in the parish hall, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Beardmore of Salem, aunt and uncle of the groom, took the place of the groom's parents in the receiving line. The groom's parents were unable to attend the wedding because of Mr. Beardmore's illness. A recording of the ceremony was made for them.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Thomas M. Beardmore of Salem and Miss Edna Belt of Kalamazoo.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Ohio, the bride wearing a suit in shades of roses shade with brown accessories and a gardenia corsage. After Sept. 13 they will live at Lake Ripley, Cambridge, Wis.

The bride was graduated from Holland High school and Cornell university where she was affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. The groom was graduated from Salem High school and Ohio State university with distinction in bacteriology. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. He served three years in the Navy and expects to do graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

George Auday of Franklin st., who has been ill for three weeks, resumed his duties at the Deming plant Tuesday.

Painting, 'Spirit Of '76,' Has Salem Connection

By ELINOR CURRIER
Does the name Samuel R. Willard ring a bell in your memory? Probably not!

Now take the name again, and to it add the famous painting, "Spirit of '76," plus Salem and Baptist and it adds up to an interesting story. Elder Samuel R. Willard, a pioneer preacher of the Disciples of Christ and one-time missionary of the Ohio society, fathered Archibald M. Willard, the artist who painted the "Spirit of '76." But what very few people know is the fact that Elder Willard is the central figure in the marching trio and in the year 1842 was pastor of the Salem Baptist church. These were years of strife and turmoil and the anti-slavery question was always a hot controversial topic and out of this bone of contention in Salem was formed two factions of Baptists. The one and original group was church in the white frame house on Half st., (since named Depot and Ellsworth), while the second descender, under the leadership of Elder Willard, prospered for the year after his call to Salem in the log cabin purchased from the Methodists. In the revival during his ministry here, 72 persons were taken into the new church. After Willard left, it wasn't long until differences were settled and the congregations again were consolidated.

On March 17th, 1876, in his 76th year Samuel Willard, then of Wellington died, so bringing to close a long and eventful life, the history of which has been perpetuated everlastingly in the minds of Americans, mainly through the painting of his son, whose artistic ability he encouraged.

Obtained Lessons

As a boy young Willard showed a marked interest in sketching so his father let a local artist work out a debt by giving him lessons. From decorating de luxe model carriages in a wagon shop in Wellington, a job which certainly was proof of his skill, Archibald Willard had his career interrupted by the Civil war.

When he again was free to participate in civilian life his pictures took the trend of the semi-comic and at this time, J. P. Ryder, a Cleveland art store dealer reproduced many of these as post-card chromos. They achieved great popularity. The most famous are the Pluck series, concerning children, and "Deacon Jones Experience." Ryder made it possible for young

HEAVIEST CARRIER DUTY BOMBER PASSES NAVY TEST

Willard to take an art course in New York.

His work continued in a light vein and in that manner he painted "Fourth of July Musicians," later renamed "Yankee Doodle." In the Centennial year, 1876, the year of his father's death, young Willard was so affected by the grave and determined expression in the old man's eyes, that he made over the original painting, using his father as the now familiar white-haired drummer figure.

Henry Kelsey Devereaux, son of General Devereaux, wealthy Cleveland of the post-war period, was the model for the drummer boy. Willard watched the boy drill at Brook's Military school in Cleveland and was impressed by his ability.

The flier is Hugh Mosher, a war comrade of Willard's in the 86th Ohio Regiment. He was a martial band leader and well-known to people of Lorain county. He played for hours while posing for the artist.

The Philadelphia Exposition of 1876 was highlighted by the showing of the completed "Spirit of '76," as we know it today. The painting attracted huge crowds wherever displayed. Ryder, who had so helped the struggling artist, first showed the picture in his store window in Cleveland. (It is interesting to note that the engine of the Freedom train now stopping in Ohio, has been named the "Spirit of '76.")

The intense interest in the painting was reflected in the fact that Willard was requested to make replicas in the years that followed. The last copy, made at the wish of Newton D. Baker, hangs in Cleveland city hall.

Seven Originals

There are thought to be seven originals, varying in detail and size, but whether the canvas purchased by General Devereaux, which hangs in Abbott hall at Marblehead, Mass., or the one in possession of the Western Reserve Historical society is the one originally painted in Ryder's art store, has not been proved.

In the Wellington public library hangs a replica of the comic painting, "Yankee Doodle," made for W. E. Barton, father of Bruce Barton, while in the stained glass windows of the Wellington Church of Christ appears the name of the artist's father, Samuel R. Willard, originally a Baptist preacher from Vermont.

The history of the Disciple and Baptist churches are closely interwoven as shown in Willard's ministry, as he left the Baptists to join the Alexander Campbell movement in the late forties.

He served the Disciples at Kent, Stow, Mantua, La Grange and he was pastor of the Wellington church in 1860 when a new church was erected; dedicated by James A. Garfield. President Garfield's portrait was later painted by young Willard, thus intermingling the lives of the father and his artist son with a president of the United States.

Here's the "freedom train" you ride every day

No other people in all the world eat so well...

We work only 7 minutes to earn the price of a loaf of bread. A Russian must work ten times longer for his bread... and 15 times longer than we do to buy a pound of beef.

...or dress so well...
for so little...

We can earn the price of a cotton dress in a little over 2 hours. An Englishman will work 7 1/2 hours... but the Russian works for more than 32 hours!

...and, one out of every 5 of us owns a car, too...

In Great Britain, one out of every 24 people has a car. In France, one out of every 42. In Russia, there is only one car for every 294 people!

Incidentally, we use the best and cheapest gasoline in the world...

For gasoline, we only have to pay 19¢ per gallon, plus tax. The English motorist must pay 43¢... the Frenchman pays 62¢... and the Spaniard, if he can get it at all, pays $2.07!

PROFITS WILL REMAIN HIGH, FARMERS TOLD

Price of Feeder Cattle To Remain Up Because Of Shortage

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8.—If you're wondering down on the farm what to do about this corn-wheat-meat question, buy "feeder" cattle—it looks like a good business proposition.

This is what Ohio State university economists say in looking over the current market conditions.

Writing in the monthly "Timely Economic Information for Ohio Farmers," distributed by the Agricultural Extension Service, the experts point out that the record crops anticipated this fall have driven down the price on corn and wheat somewhat.

However, their survey discloses that for some reason or other, farmers shipped 25 per cent fewer "feeder" cattle from the west and southwest into the eight corn belt states during the first seven months of this year than last year.

"This is the second smallest shipment to these states on record," the bulletin noted.

Farmers were advised by the economists to consider these factors in deciding whether they should buy cattle to fatten for market:

- 1.—Supplies of feeder cattle are smaller than a year ago.
- 2.—Pasture conditions are better than average throughout the nation and are more favorable than a year ago in six of the 10 important range states.
- 3.—Prospective demand for meat in relation to supply indicates packers will offer farmers strong competition for available grass cattle later in the fall.
- 4.—Prospects for another record corn crop and the largest supply of feeder grain per animal in history indicate corn will be at support price level this fall, the beef-corn ratio will be more favorable and cattle feeding operations will increase in all major cattle feeding areas.

The economists concluded:

"When all factors are considered, it is quite possible that the decline in feeder cattle prices this fall will be somewhat smaller than could be expected under more normal conditions. Price advantages which may be gained by waiting to buy could be more than offset by having to buy heavier cattle later which would mean smaller gains per pound of feed and increased risks."

The summing up of the economists indicated they believed there isn't going to be as much meat to go around and the prices will remain high. They tell the farmer if he wants to reap a profit on the cheap corn he has raised this summer, he had better get some cattle and manufacture high-priced meat with it.

Salem Band At Columbiana Street Fair On Thursday

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 7 — The Quaker City band of Salem Legion post will be an attraction of Thursday evening, the opening night of the annual three-day fair and homecoming sponsored by Firestone Legion post of Columbiana, members of the post fair committee announce.

The Quaker City band has won many awards in competition with other leading bands of the state. It was voted the best appearing band at the recent Ohio department convention in Columbus, and was awarded fourth place in the overall contest, with a rating five points higher than in 1947.

Firestone Legion post band will play Friday and Saturday nights.

Teacher Resigns

The board of education Monday evening accepted the resignation of Earl Smith, who has been a teacher in the eighth grade four years. The vacancy has not been filled.

A representative of Kling & Frost, Youngstown architects, was present with the completed plans for the addition to the high school building, and they were gone over informally by the board. Detailed specifications will be ready for approval by the board within a couple of weeks.

A renewal of the five-year three-mill levy for school purposes, which has been in force for a number of years, will be submitted to the voters at the November election.

To Extend Water Main

Homer Harrold superintendent of the city water department, expects to begin work this week on the extension of the water main 1,300 feet east on E. Park ave., outside the corporation limit. The extension will provide city water service for a number of homes as far east as the residence of Willis Miller.

Material for the extension has been on hand for some time. Other extensions will be involved in the area east of the cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Gormley are home from a week's vacation in Virginia and West Virginia.

Farmers to Ponder Labor

Secretary George M. Griffith of the Farm Labor Association of northern Ohio announces that an important meeting of the association will be held Thursday evening at 8 in Columbiana village hall. The labor situation with reference to fall crops, particularly apples, will be considered.

John Jeffreys, truck driver, who has been in a plaster cast in Salem City hospital from his neck to his feet since he was injured in a collision on Route 46, May 31, has so far recovered that the cast has been removed from the upper half of his body. The lower half of the cast will have to remain a few weeks longer.

(All too few of us, who call ourselves Americans, know what it is that makes America different from other countries.

But...the bent and twisted old jeweler, who finally escaped the Gestapo in Austria, can tell you...

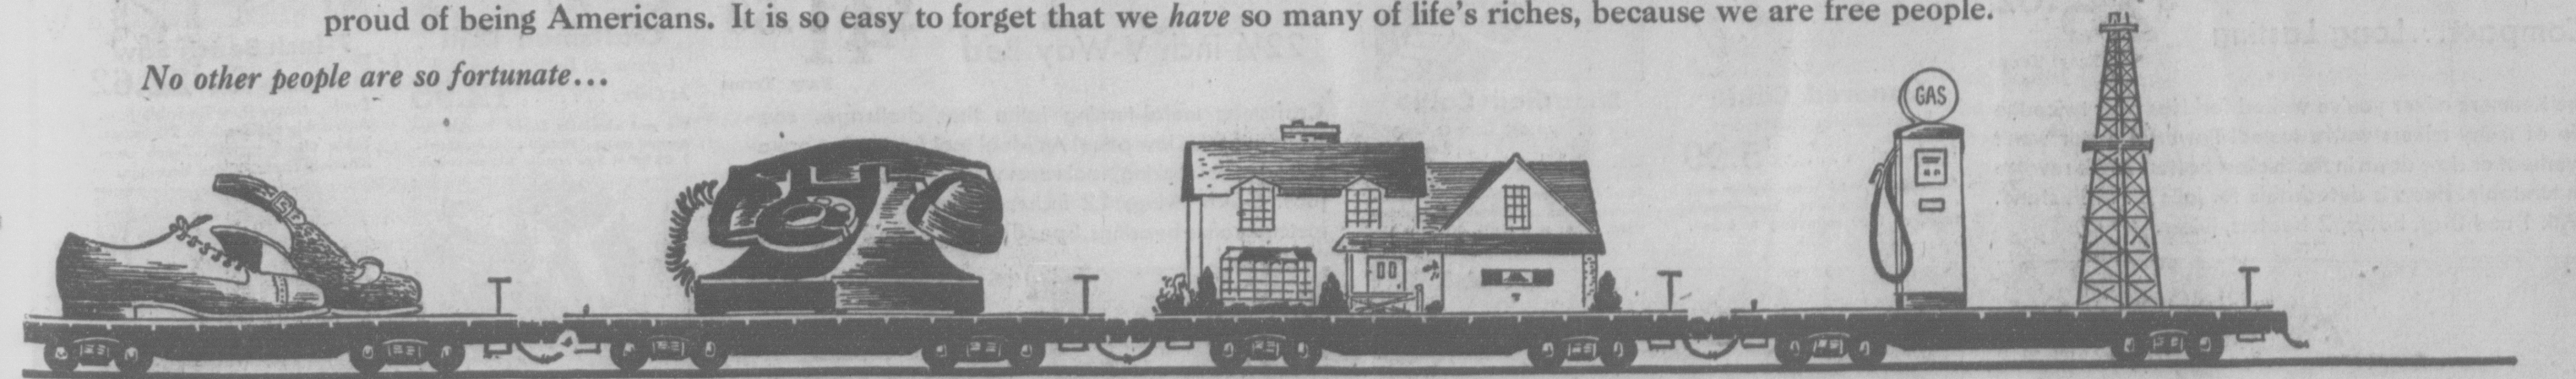

and the pathetic little refugee widow...hollow-eyed and shriveled....can tell you!

Yes, if you want to know, they'll tell you. They will reverently caress the word as they say it: "FREEDOM!"

Freedom to think...freedom to plan...freedom to act. Freedom to create...to produce...to sell. Freedom in the open market as well as in the schools and churches. Freedom to speak out for or against. Freedom to compete for men's minds...and their patronage, too.

We, who have lived with "freedom" so long, take it for granted...like the air we breathe. It is so easy to forget the things that should make us proud of being Americans. It is so easy to forget that we have so many of life's riches, because we are free people.

No other people are so fortunate...

...but for walking, we have the best shoes in all the world...

...and we can, on the average earn enough money in 7 1/4 hours to buy a pair of good shoes. But think of it...a Russian must work for more than 108 hours to buy a pair of shoes, worth much less!

...every 5 of us share one telephone

A true measuring device of good living is the telephone. There is one telephone to every 12 people in Great Britain. But in Russia 125 people share one telephone.

...and, a great majority of Americans own their own homes...

The home of our average worker, with all its furnishings...its washing machine...its plumbing...its electric refrigerators...would be a palace in most other places of the world!

We receive the benefits of 28 times more oil products...

Yes...we are the oil-usingest people in all the world. It is safe to say that we use 28 times more oil products per person in just one year than any other people in the world.

remember...Freedom is everybody's business!

Lions Plan Box Social

Plans were made at the Lions club meeting Tuesday evening at the Lape hotel to have a box lunch social at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Willow Grove grange hall.

The committee in charge of the program is composed of Frank Monier, Nicholas Vacar and Cameron Hay. Members, their families and guests are invited.

Vincent Judge, Columbiana county treasurer, entertained members at the meeting by showing a part of his collection of mechanical coin banks and telling the history of each.

William Blount was program chairman.

Youth Council Meets

The Youth council of Holy Trinity Lutheran church will meet Wednesday at the pastor's home at 272 S. Union ave. to plan the program for Youth Sunday, Sept. 19, and to arrange for the activities of the Youth fall program.

Members of the Youth council are Darrel Askey, Robert Askey, Patty Drotloff, Judy Gregg, Shirley

Entertains Rotarians

In entertaining members of the Rotary club Tuesday evening in the Memorial building, Dr. D. W. Flint, past president of the Pittsburgh, Pa., Rotary club, dealt with one central theme, "enjoy life."

Dr. Flint, a retired dentist, said that now is the time to enjoy the things you want to do and not the distant future which may never materialize into what you want to do.

Lloyd Gordon was program chairman.

Mayor's Receipts $722

Mayor S. I. Johnson's office collected $722.20 during the month of August, according to a report filed by the mayor with city council.

The breakdown shows: Building permits $17, licenses $47, city fines $462.20, state patrol cases $140 and city costs $56.

The total is considerably under previous months this year.

499 OHIOANS GO IN FIRST DRAFT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 8 — State Selective service headquarters today announced that 499 Ohioans would be inducted into the armed forces during November in the first peacetime draft call.

The Army earlier asked for 10,000 draftees from the nation in November.

A state headquarters spokesman said each of Ohio's 127 draft boards would be assigned a quota in the November call "but we haven't worked out the number each board will be required to call up."

The spokesman said pre-induction examinations of the oldest age groups — men of 25 — would start "either early in October or, possibly, late this month."

"We naturally plan to order several times 499 men to take pre-induction physical examinations before the November call," the spokesman said. "Just how many is still to be determined."

"Our next step is to go into a huddle before the November call," the spokesman continued.

He said the pre-induction physicals would be held at Army recruiting stations equipped to handle such medical examinations. The list of such stations "isn't available as yet," the spokesman added, but it will include "major cities such as Dayton, Columbus, Cleveland, and Cincinnati."

U. S. Ready To Open Gates For Germans

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — The United States is getting ready to reopen the immigration gates to Germans living in the Reich. The war-raised bars have been up for more than seven years.

The first of 25,987 Germans to be eligible for admission each year will be chosen soon after a mass registration of applicants in the western occupation zones of Germany and Austria.

State department officials said today the registration may start this month. The actual date will be set as soon as American consular officials give the word that they are ready to handle the inevitable rush.

Two million registration forms have been printed in Switzerland. The biggest group of applicants is expected to come from the 800,000 or so displaced persons—those left homeless by the war. Congress has voted to admit 205,000 of these during the next two years.

The new legislation also opened the way for restoring the pre-war German quota.

Methodist Choir
The Methodist choir will hold its first post-vacation rehearsal at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the church.

RUSSIA

other two powers involved, have given no formal reply to the Russian request, as yet.

United States spokesmen in Washington have indicated they regard the Russian proposal as propaganda, offering no real possibility of settling a question which has tied up the foreign ministers and their deputies ever since it first came up after the war.

The points at issue between the powers never have been publicly disclosed, but unofficial sources say even the western powers are in disagreement on what to do about Eritrea, Libia and Somaliland.

The issue also has popped up in American politics. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee, has suggested Italy be given a chance to develop the resources of her former colonies under a United Nations trusteeship.

This jibes in general with unofficial reports of what Russia has proposed. President Truman has said the colonial question is not one to be handled politically in the United States.

CONFLICTS

European recovery — seemed almost hopeless.

2—The European Recovery program—the Marshall plan—seemed in danger of being bogged down by failure of the participating countries to agree on division of U. S. aid.

3. The Big Four were in total disagreement after three years of wrangling over the fate of former Italian colonies. The British accepted in principle a Soviet request for a Big Four council of foreign ministers meeting next week on the problem, and the U. S. and France were expected to follow suit. But there was no hope of agreement before the Sept. 15 deadline, after which the whole issue would go to the UN general assembly.

4. American officials are disappointed and worried about what they consider Western Europe's failure to move swiftly enough toward a Western European union. Britain accused of dragging her feet.

5. The British domestic situation is once more critical. Labor government authorities are appealing to workers for more production. U. S. officials believe Marshall plan success depends on Britain's quick recovery.

6. Russia is having serious trouble with her satellites. The Polish Communist party is split. Yugoslavia is defying the Kremlin. Non-Communist Czechoslovaks are using the funeral of their beloved former President Eduard Benes to demonstrate against their fate.

Russia has economic troubles too. More and more evidence appears that her satellites want to trade with the west and that the economic situation in Soviet-occupied eastern Germany is bad.

Toss in the Soviet-American conflicts in Japan and Korea, the Indian troubles, and the Palestine problem, and a backdrop of plenty of troubles emerges for the Sept. 21 third general assembly of the United Nations.

Debate Usefulness Of Spy Probes

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 8—Do congressional spy investigations serve a good cause in the United States?

To Sen. J. Howard McGrath (D-R.I.) and Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer, the answer is no. But Rep. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) and Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) say they do.

On a "Town Hall Of The Air" broadcast (ABC) last night Mundt, a member of the house Un-American activities committee, said:

"They (congressional spy probes) are as much in the national interest as investigations by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to detect and avert such crimes as kidnapping."

"The public had been permitted to enjoy a false sense of security entirely ignorant of the fact that Communist spy penetrations had been operating — and undoubtedly are still operating today—in highly strategic positions of the federal government."

On the other hand, Senator McGrath, Democratic national chairman, said spy activities are the proper concern of the FBI and that congressional committees serve only to spoil its work.

"The congressional investigations," he said, "have brought forth no facts or personalities that were not known and adequately dealt with by the executive branches of the government."

Senator Ferguson, head of the senate investigation committee, spoke from Detroit. Senator McGrath talked in Washington and Mundt and Daniels addressed the Youngstown meeting.

AUTO MODELS

and a lot of power is blown out through the exhaust pipe.

Extensive research by two General Motors engineers indicates the average present day engine converts only 20 to 25 per cent of the chemical energy of a gallon of gasoline into mechanical energy.

These engineers, John M. Campbell and Lloyd L. Withrow, say "the remaining part of the chemical energy, released during combustion, is converted into heat which eventually is dissipated into the atmosphere."

They report that in some of their tests with an 8-to-1 ratio engine "gains as high as 25 per cent were realized, with fuel of a quality not much above some present premium gasolines."

As the time for introduction of more new model cars approaches it appears increasingly evident there won't be very many more automatic transmissions.

Many car makers have tested out their own types of automatic gear shifting and drive devices, but many have decided to delay them until next summer or later. The car makers assert they are satisfied with the devices they have developed.

The cost at which they now may be offered is much higher than the auto manufacturers expected when they began experimenting with them.

DEWEY'S INITIAL TALK SET SEPT. 20

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 8—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will open his campaign for the presidency Sept. 20 with a speech in Des Moines, Iowa.

The Republican presidential nominee's campaign manager, Herbert Brownell Jr., said in announcing this today that the address would be delivered at Drake stadium.

The subject matter of Dewey's first speech was not disclosed.

The New York governor will speak from 9 to 9:30 p. m., Eastern Standard time. The address will be broadcast over the CBS and Mutual networks.

Dewey plans to leave Albany for Des Moines the evening of Sept. 19. He will travel by train.

put the six-month allotment of funds into the public employees retirement funds in the health, water and other city departmental funds.

Study Truck Traffic
George Chappell, chairman of the safety committee, reported that his committee recommends that no action be taken on the question of passing an ordinance forbidding truck traffic on E. Third st. until a survey of city traffic is completed by the state highway department.

Chappell's report was accepted by council, pending the survey report of the highway officials. The action had been requested by property owners and residents on the street at councils last regular session.

A protest against assessment of his properties on Arch st. for street and sewer improvements there was filed by Anton Ospeck, 837 Arch st. The protest was placed on file.

A petition requesting the closing of an alley between the Lyle Publishing Co. plant and the Town Hall Diner on E. State st., was read and referred to the planning commission. Council requested a reply at its next meeting.

Wilson reported that he has received four inquiries regarding the purchase of the buildings on the site of the proposed new city building.

ing, at the corner of E. Pershing st. and S. Broadway, but as yet has no bids to purchase.

Sewer Committee Chairman Fred Blevins called a joint meeting of the sewer and finance committees for 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, at city hall to discuss repairs and replacements being made and needed in equipment at the city disposal plant. Blevins extended the invitation to all members of council interested in the work being done there.

Michael Schuller, chairman of the lighting committee, recommended extension of the lighting systems on W. Fourth st., E. Sixth st., and Maple st., east of Fair ave. The recommendation was referred to Wilson for the needed work.

Councils next regular meeting is scheduled Tuesday, Sept. 21.

XII
TOWARDS lunch time he mounted the steps of his mother's little house in Park st. It was George's green Rolls-Royce four-seater, he supposed, which stood at the curb. A noisy brute of a car, and just what George would drive. Automatically he searched his pockets—damn—no keys—Dalton had his keys, in Peshawar.

Round the corner came two quise correct little boys, brothers, dressed alike in gray suits with bare knees and white collars. With them was a lively spaniel, off his lead, which dangled from the younger boy's hand. Eminently well-behaved, they came level with the bottom of the steps where he stood—they were moving briskly, absorbed in the dog. Hilary pressed the bell.

The little boys broke into a brief run in an effort to refasten the lead to the frisky dog's collar. They were still chasing him busily, several houses further away when Hilary, the maid, opened the door to an empty doormat. Hilary slipped past her into the hall. With a dark look after the innocent pair with the spaniel, Hilary shut the door smartly and returned to the kitchen, muttering.

Hilary mounted the familiar carpeted stairs to his mother's sitting-room.

He heard voices, and the door stood open. "Cocktails," mater," George was saying decisively. "Too much sherry lately—makes me liverish."

"Oh? Well, ring the bell, dear, and just tell Hinton what you want," their mother's light, cheerful voice advised him. "Alice said 1:15 for lunch. She's at the hair-dresser's till 1."

HILARY paused on the threshold and stood looking into the sunny room and feeling bitterly sorry for himself. Everything was so entirely usual here. Alice was expected to lunch—cocktails would come up on a clinking tray—his mother was at her writingtable in a becoming gown someone ought to praise—old George with his finger on the bell and his eye on the lunch-time racing form. . . .

Obviously they didn't know yet, about him. The Home Office was taking its time.

"I say, there's a blasted silly story going round the club," said George. "Ponsonby swears he had a ghost in his room last night."

"At the club?" Their mother looked up from her letter-writing with a skeptical smile.

"Yes, at the club!" George affirmed, and grinned.

"It was me," said Hilary tentatively, half expecting, half hoping they would hear, and turn on him with incredulous hoots of rude family laughter. But—

"Nonsense, he'd been drinking," she cried, her incredulity all for Ponsonby.

"Ponsonby's a teetotaler," said George.

"Then no wonder he sees things!" she concluded logically. "What happened, to make him think it was a ghost?"

"Well, Ponsonby says he was in bed reading, when the door suddenly swung open as though someone had turned the knob from the passage."

"Yes—and hadn't someone?"

"Not a soul. There was nobody there. That is, nobody he could see. He was frightfully upset!"

"I said I was sorry," said Hilary in his own defense.

"Men's clubs are full of practical jokes," asserted their mother.

"Ah, but Ponsonby swears he pulled himself together at once and jumped out of bed to close the door. The passage was empty. But he's positive that something had opened that door and was surprised to see him there, and went away, leaving it open."

"I never heard of anything so absurd!" she cried. "The latch gave in a draught, of course."

"I know. We all said that. But there's another thing."

"Well, what?"

"Last night somebody slept in a room that was supposed to be empty."

"Oh, George, really!"

"I'm only telling you what they said! A room that hadn't been booked for several nights had its bed slept in last night. But there's no trace of the occupant—Hinton, if you'll bring up the makings," added George. "I'll shake up a White Lady before lunch."

"Yes, sir," said Hinton, and withdrew again.

"And that's not all," George continued impressively, and produced the ultimate manifestation. "The fellow in the next room heard the bath water being run by the fellow in the empty room."

"Now, George, you're not trying to tell me their ghost took a bath!"

"That's the story! Ponsonby is going to write to the Society for Psychological Research!"

"Men are so silly! He was probably scaring himself to death with a detective story when it happened. George, I've had another letter from those people down at Nuns Farthing."

"What people?" demanded Hilary, astonished.

KENSINGTON

Sixty persons enjoyed a coverdish dinner in the annex of the Kensington Methodist women and the women of the Christian church entertained the women's group of the Bethesda Presbyterian church of Millport.

Group singing was enjoyed and duets were sung by Misses Donna and Anne Manfull, accompanied at the piano by their mother, Mrs. Freeman Manfull. Mrs. Robert Mulligan and Mrs. William Morgan presented a duet accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Roach at the piano.

Special guests included Rev. Paul McLaughlin and Ben Lindesmith of the Bethesda Presbyterian church, and Rev. Robert Mulligan of the Kensington Christian church.

Mrs. Thomas Manfull and Mrs. Edwin Stuckey will entertain the Ladies Aid of the Christian church at their regular meeting Thursday afternoon, Sept. 16.

More than 100 members and friends of the Augusta and Kensington Christian churches enjoyed a basket dinner at Minerva Municipal park, recently.

Rev. Theodore Cord of the Steubenville Christian church, formerly of Lisbon, addressed the group following the dinner.

The dinner was held as a climax of a Sunday school attendance contest between the two churches. Lester Berry is superintendent of the Augusta Sunday school, while Roland Dorr is head of the Kensington group.

Mrs. Bertha Clark will entertain members of the Fancy Work club at their next regular meeting. This was announced when the group met with Mrs. William C. Maple as hostess. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Louise Maple.

Miss Jane Allman of Salineville visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. William C. Maple.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown of R. D. Kensington, are the parents of a son, born at the Canton Mercy hospital.

Mrs. Bertha Clark visited with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harsh of East Rochester.

Bruce Kirsch had a portion of his finger removed while at work in a Salem plant.

VACUUM CLEANER PLEASES CATTLE

CANTON—Note to farmers: A vacuum cleaner can go a long way toward increasing milk production.

The Hoover Co., of suburban North Canton reported that use of a vacuum cleaner on a herd of 46

Bovines on the Fitch farm, Sterling, Mass., upped milk output 25 per cent in the first two months after its use.

It seems lice disturbed the cows. Three men used to spend half a day currying the cows, but with not too much success. The owner, Charles P. Childs, said the cows "switched their tails, kicked their hoofs, nodded their heads and generally itched."

A Hoover salesman, however, used a tank-type cleaner to go over the entire herd in little less than an hour.

Now the cows are contented, the farmer is contented and so are vacuum cleaner salesmen, who have a new argument to add to their repertory.

TURNPIKE TO RUN NEAR VALLEY FORGE DESPITE PROTESTS

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., Sept. 8.—Residents of the historic Valley Forge area were notified officially today that their protests against the proposed route of the Pennsylvania Turnpike extension were in vain.

The Turnpike commission sent letters to several hundred residents and friends of the Valley Forge park stating that "after full consideration of the many details involved, and having exhausted the possibilities of a relocation to the south," the turnpike would go through as originally planned.

Historical and patriotic societies have asserted that Philadelphia extension of the turnpike, skirting the park on the south, would prevent an eventual expansion of the state park.

Rep. Hardie Scott (R-Pa.) whose 500 acre dairy farm "Glen Hardie" would be bisected by the turnpike, said he will take any recourse open to him, including court action, to have the route changed.

"This is something that will be regretted for generations because there is only one Valley Forge," Scott said.

Scott explained that a plan drawn up in 1937 envisioned an expansion of the park, southward to take in the headquarters of Generals Lafayette, Mifflin, Pulaski and others.

"The turnpike plan shows that the highway will go right between the house and barn of Lafayette's headquarters," Scott said.

"As far as our farm is concerned," Scott said, "it will be ruined either for its present purpose or as a future place of public interest."

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Service Director of the City of Salem, Ohio at his office located in the City Hall, Salem, Ohio until 12:00 noon on the 30th day of September, 1948 for the purchase of the following described personal property no longer needed for any municipal purpose.

1. Frame dwelling house and other buildings located on property owned by the City of Salem, said frame dwelling being formerly known as the Webster property, said buildings are located on Lots 295 and 396 in Zadok Street's First Addition of Lots to the City of Salem. No part of the real estate is being sold. Bids will be received for the price that the bidder will pay for the buildings, for either removal of the buildings or salvage value.

IOWA LEADS U. S. MEAT PRODUCTION

Survey On Year's Output Made By Agriculture Authorities

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — Iowa topped the country last year both in production of meat animals and the output of dressed meat.

The Agriculture department's latest survey of the livestock situation includes a comprehensive survey of 1947 meat production.

It shows Iowa with 14.5 per cent of total U. S. output of meat animals in 1947, and with 10.1 per cent of the nation's dressed meat output.

Iowa's share of meat animal production on farms was nearly twice that of Illinois, which stood second. Illinois also rated runner-up in dressed meat production, with 9.7 per cent of the U. S. total.

Nebraska ranked sixth in both categories. Its percentage of national output was 5.2 in each instance.

South Dakota High
South Dakota turned out 3.4 per cent of the country's marketable meat animals last year, but its share of dressed meat production was only 1.9 per cent.

In the production of meat animals on farms, Iowa led in high output with 21 per cent of the U. S. total. Iowa was second in cattle and calves and seventh in sheep and lambs.

In the dressed meat category, Iowa led the field in pork output, was second in lamb and mutton, third in beef and 10th in veal.

Nebraska was third in output of cattle and calves, seventh in hogs and failed to make the first ten in sheep and lamb production.

In dressed meat, Nebraska ranked fourth in beef, sixth in lamb and mutton, eighth in pork and did not make the ten highest in veal production.

South Dakota rated ninth in the nation in hog output. It failed to make top rankings in other categories.

Altogether, the seven states of the west north central group accounted for 40 per cent of U. S. meat animal output in 1947, and 35 per cent of the nation's dressed meat production.

The group includes Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Missouri, and Kansas.

Texas and California were the only states outside the midwest to take first place in any classification. California was the biggest producer of lamb and mutton. Texas captured top honors in cattle and calves and sheep and lambs, and also in veal output.

Sons of Italy At Leetonia Improve Hall On Main St.

LEETONIA, Sept. 8—Face-lifting operations are under way at the home of one of Leetonia's largest clubs.

Last week, the order Sons of Italy in America, began an extensive alteration program on their home at 202 Main st.

More than $9,000 is to be spent in remodeling and adding a new front to the hall, according to Jack Rose, club president. New rest rooms and additional storage facilities will be installed.

The hall front will display a brick base topped by four feet of brick glass. From there to the building roof the front will be shingled.

A fire escape will be built to the second floor where the club holds its meetings and large social functions. The building's furnace also will be repaired.

The interior of the club home will receive its share of rejuvenation with new walls and ceiling.

Abbott & Sons Construction Co. of Salem and Leetonia is doing the work.

RUHR PRODUCTION IN STEEL RISING

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE
BERLIN, Sept. 8 — Ruhr steel production—now at its highest since the war—will be boosted another

2,000,000 tons in the next two years, American military government said today.

To support this increase, arrangements already have been made to import from Sweden 3,400,000 tons of iron ore and other iron-bearing raw materials.

Special efforts are being made to increase Ruhr production of coal and steel, not only to revive western Germany's economy, but to increase its contribution to the European recovery program, AMG said.

The planned boost in steel production was reported in AMG's semi-monthly review of occupation affairs.

It reported Germany's steel production had hit a new post-war high during July at 457,124 metric tons.

The target is to step this up to 7,500,000 tons annually in 1949-50, the report said. Under the revised level of industry plan adopted a year ago to make Western Germany self sustaining, the production of ingot steel is permitted to reach 10,700,000 tons annually.

The deal for high grade ore from Sweden for the Ruhr mills was made under a trade agreement with the Swedes for 1949. Bizonia's exports to Sweden under this treaty will include 125,000 tons of hot rolled steel products, 5,000 tons of cold rolled steel products, 25,000 tons of pig iron and 25,000 tons of scrap.

The AMG report also disclosed: 1. Ruhr coal production set a new postwar record during July of 7,760,000 metric tons, a gain of five percent over June.

2. Food imports for Bizonia soared to a new record during August of more than 1,000,000 tons. This was 40 per cent more than the previous month.

IN HIS YOUTH IN GERMANY, LEONARD LOELL DRIED AND PACKED HOPS. AT BURKHARDT'S, HE UNPACKS AND BREAKS UP THE HOPS JUST BEFORE THEY GO INTO THE BREW KETTLE.

Leonard Loell wants you to visit The Freedom Train from the HEART of the hops

If all of us were Americans by choice—as Leonard Loell is—we would feel strongly about The Freedom Train and everything it represents.

If we had lived under as many flags, we would have some firm convictions just as he does.

Loell was born in Roth, a suburb of the city of Nürnberg where the German war crimes trials are being held. He grew up under the rule of Kaiser Wilhelm II. He recalls that his family always read very thoroughly the letters from relatives who had come to the United States.

World War I came, Loell was drafted into the German Army in 1916. He trained and fought for the German Empire until he was captured by Australian troops near St. Quentin. He was held in a British prison in France, and was later taken to Great Britain. He returned home to live under the German Republic. He felt the growing unrest, and what he had heard about the United States made a deeper impression on him.

Loell landed in New York on Thanksgiving Day in 1924. To him, this holiday was new and bewildering but he soon learned everything it stands for. He admits he is still learning to appreciate the United States—even through the stark facts in letters he receives from relatives in Europe.

He lives in Cuyahoga Falls, where he joined his uncle back in 1924. He's proud of his home there and he proved this by spending much of his vacation working on it. It's a credit to him and to the neighborhood.
